Probe Derailing Of Crack Train, Woman Is Killed

Huge Railroad Spike Found On Rail—May Have Been Deliberate Plan

FIVE INJURED, NONE SERIOUSLY

Railroad Officials Start Probe Of Derailment Near Lockland, Ohio

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, O., May 16.—Discovering a huge railroad spike on a rail, officials here today investigated the possibility that the freak derailment of Big Four Train 124, which toppled over on a trackside house at Lockland, crushing an aged woman to death and injuring five other persons, was deliberately planned.

The accident occurred as the train was speeding through Lockland late yesterday enroute to Columbus. Striking the railroad spike, the train careened crazily for more than a city block, then, losing balance, plunged over sidewalk and crashed into a trackside house.

One Woman Killed

Mrs. Rose Earhart, 76, who was sitting at the dinner table with her husband, was killed almost instantly. Her husband, Frank Earhart, 77, escaped with a fractured leg.

The others injured were members of the crew of the ill-fated engine. They were: James Salvey, 39, of Gallon, O., baggage master; Leon Leonard, 27, of Newport, Ky., news agent; Fred Heard, 27, of Cincinnati, fireman; and Clarence Lee, 61, of Columbus, O., engineer.

Witnesses of the accident said that Lee made a desperate attempt to bring his train to a stop. The engine, tender, baggage car and the first coach left the track and plunged furiously for more than a block when they were stopped by the impact with the trackside house.

Probe Is Started

Passengers on the train remained calm, despite their thrilling ride and none was hurt.

Officials of the railroad hurried to the scene immediately. Before the steam had ceased pouring from the overturned engine, an investigation was under way.

Following the discovery of the railroad spike on a rail, officials made known their suspicions that the wreck may have been planned deliberately, although they were unable to explain a motive for such an act. The rail and spike were locked up for further examination today.

GOVERNOR AND PARTY STOP HERE OVERNIGHT

Accompanied by secretaries, newspaper men and officers of the State Highway Patrol, Governor Gifford Pinchot arrived in New Castle Friday evening and spent the night at The Castleton.

His stay here was a break jump between speaking engagements in Sharon and DuBois. In Sharon last night he spoke on the Utility Legislation which is at present before the General Assembly and in his remarks, scored Senator Frank L. Fay of Mercer county for his refusal to aid in passing the legislation.

Other speakers were Secretary of Property and Supplies James F. Malone and Judge Eugene Bonniwell of Philadelphia. Mr. Malone and Judge Bonniwell were introduced by Senator George T. Weingartner of New Castle.

Upon his arrival in his room in The Castleton last night Governor Pinchot found a beautiful bouquet, the courtesy of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce. The flowers pleased him immensely.

The governor and his party left at nine fifteen this morning. Six cars made up the fleet, several of the cars containing newspaper men who are accompanying the governor on the trip.

Harvey, roused by the bellowing of the terrified cattle, rushed to the blazing barn and saved three valuable cows before he was driven away by the flames. Steelton and Harrisburg fire companies prevented the fire from spreading to the farmhouse and another barn on the property.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—Seven of the 17 passengers who escaped injury because of the quick thinking of Pilot A. C. Kondat in landing a burning plane near Aberdeen, Md., today highly praised the pilot.

They arrived here last night continuing their trip by air.

The plane was flying from Richmond to New York at an altitude of 1500 feet and a speed of 120 miles an hour when flames appeared on the fuselage and smoke filled the cabin. Kondat directed his assistant, G. J. McDonald, to fight the fire with an extinguisher, while he drove the plane on for five miles to a landing in a small field at Edgewood Arsenal. The passengers remained calm.

Reeves Plans To See Fire Apparatus

City May Award Contract After Reeves Returns To City From Tour

Councilman Clayton Reeves' inspection of fire apparatus will start next week and will last at least several days. He may be accompanied on his tour by Fire Chief Lynn. He will reach Buffalo Monday, and may also journey to Cincinnati, Elmira and Kenosha. Bids on equipment have been submitted.

The city proposes to buy a pumper, with a booster tank and hose cart. It is to be stationed in the second ward fire department house. The present pumper will be kept by the city, it is proposed.

Reeves believes it good policy to see what the city is getting before he makes a recommendation and it is probable that following his return to the city a contract will be awarded.

Unveil Safety Trophy At Wampum Plant

A tiny, red headed girl pulled a silver cord Friday afternoon at Crescentdale, a band blared out into the Star Spangled Banner, an enshrouding cloth fell away from a thing of granite and cement and Safety Trophy, coveted throughout the cement industry stood revealed to the world, a tribute to the safety record of the Crescent plant of the Medusa Portland Cement Company in 1930.

Almost severe in its simplicity, but beautiful for all its stark, austere design, the trophy stands today as a tribute for past performance in safety and an inspiration for the coming years. It represents one year's production without a lost time accident, but more, it represents one year when no women were widowed because of carelessness in the industry, when no kiddies lost their fathers, when no pay envelope was curtailed because of a lack of care.

Gala Day.

For the presentation, Crescentdale and Wampum were on parade. It was an event in which the citizenry joined with the industry in celebrating properly. The schools were dismissed to attend the exercise.

Two Perfect Bridge Hands In Single Deal

Harry C. Dinsmore, assistant cashier at the Citizens National Bank, claims to be the hard luck champion of New Castle, and thereby hangs a tale.

Last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Dinsmore dropped in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Haven, all of whom reside on Norwood avenue, to enjoy a sociable evening at bridge.

When the first hand was dealt out, Mr. Haven nonchalantly bid one spade. Mrs. Haven who was the partner of Mr. Dinsmore bid two hearts. Mr. Dinsmore after glancing over his cards, found to his great surprise that he held 13 clubs, a perfect hand, and could scarcely wait until it came his turn to bid, when he burst forth with seven clubs. Imagine his consternation, when Mr. Haven announced seven spades.

Two perfect hands, a most unusual combination had been dealt out in the one deal. Of course, Mr. Haven secured the bid, with his seven spades. But Mr. Dinsmore claims he is the champion of hard luck. He had never seen a perfect hand in a game before, let alone hold one and then play it, because his opponent held seven cards of a higher rank.

HEIRS TO BAKER FORTUNE

George F. Baker, noted financier, divided up the bulk of his $75,000,000 estate, which was much smaller than generally anticipated, among his son, George F. Baker, Jr. (lower left), who received approximately $60,000,000; his daughter, Mrs. William Goadby Loew (right), who was willed $5,000,000, and Florence J. Loew (upper left), a granddaughter, who was left the famous Baker estate at Tuxedo, N. Y. Another daughter was willed $5,000,000. Although the famous banker's fortune had been estimated as high as $300,000,000, the shrinkage is explained by the fact that he transferred millions away to his son and philanthropies previous to his death.

Briand Shares Diplomatic Duel

Foreign Ministers Of France And Germany In Verbal Clash

FIRST ENCOUNTER ENDS IN DRAW

(BULLETIN)
GENEVA, May 16.—The long anticipated diplomatic duel between M. Aristide Briand and Herr Julius Curtius, foreign ministers respectively of France and Germany, over the proposed Austro-German customs union opened here today at the meeting of the commission on the the federation of Europe.

The first round ended in a draw when, after listening to speeches by the two foreign ministers, the commission took a temporary recess until later afternoon or evening.

Herr Curtius made a spirited defense of the projected customs union, declaring that in such an agreement lies the only hope for alleviating the present economic crisis in middle Europe. He was conceded to have scored an important point when he stated:

"Germany is ready to enter into an unilateral or plurilateral customs accord with any country or group of countries."

Briand retorted that the proposed customs union would bring only "trouble for the peoples," and urged that it be abandoned.

Autoist Runs Down Four In Spanish Crowd

Believed He Was Being Held Up By Communists—Mob Shoots Him To Death

(BULLETIN)
LONDON, May 16.—Four pedestrians were killed by an automobilist at Astarie today when they attempted to halt the automobile in the streets. The driver of the car was killed by a fusillade of shots which resulted from his refusal to halt, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Madrid.

The motorist was an engineer who, believing that an armed crowd which attempted to halt the machine in which he and his wife were driving were Communists, "stepped on the gas" and ran four of the crowd down.

Shots poured into the car from all directions, instantly killing the engineer and seriously wounding his wife.

Police reserves were called to restore order.

Army Planes Are Made Ready For Gigantic Event

Formation Practice Indulged In Today By Hundreds Of Combat Planes

BIG "AIR SHOW" TO BE ENACTED

Dayton, Ohio, Airport Alive With Planes—Greatest Air Armada In History

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FAIRFIELD AIR DEPOT, FAIRFIELD, O., May 16.—Acres of airplanes pointed their noses into the sky here today as the Army Air Corps 1931 maneuvers started with formation practice which will take several hundred planes into areas above virtually every city within a radius of two hundred miles.

Dawn saw the breaking of a tight ground formation made up of nearly all of the 672 machines in the largest single grouping of airplanes ever brought together for maneuvers. Scattered units from distant fields checked in at intervals during the day, but the major portion of the air armada, which will start Tuesday for Chicago and the East was "on the line" and ready to fly.

Practice Formations

Propellers were turning early, and the hills surrounding Dayton where a score of camps were set up, the Wright Brothers coaxed a motored box kite into the air, echoed the roar of 300,000 horsepower today. The practice formations pulled out with clock-like precision, down a long lane flanked by the noses of other ships.

Tentatively slated for afternoon was a combat demonstration which will determine the 18 plane unit to provide the major "thrills" of the air show. California and Selfridge Field, Mich., groups were active in this contest. The tests were originally slated for Sunday.

Operations thus far won enthusiastic approval of the commanding officer, Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois, Assistant Chief of Staff (Continued On Page Two)

In days of old when the west was young the mail was carried by Locknovers who knew no railroad, no automobiles, they had no engines nor all steel cars. They carried the mail on the pony's back and battled the redskins who barred the way, and that was romance of a different kind, there's another romance that we have today. We have the mailman who plumbs the skies, and shoots the clouds with his load of mail, who speeds along through curlicue blue, nor minds the wrath of the king of gales. The pony rider has had his place, but progress insisted that he make way for other lads with a flying plane, the weather is seventy two today.

Wife Asks Husband For More Money To Keep Their Family

In the case of the commonwealth against Steve Barkay, who was ordered to pay his wife $10 per week at the March term of court, following a hearing on a non-support charge, his wife, Mary Barkay, presented a petition in court this morning asking to have the amount increased. At the time the order was made Mrs. Barkay with her children, was living in a house owned by Barkay and he was paying for gas, water and electric. It is claimed that she has had to move out of the house and move in with her mother, where she has rent to pay. The $10 per week is not sufficient to meet expenses, Judge Hildebrand set June 1 at a time for hearing the application.

In the case of Wilhelmina Davis against Sol Davis, May 23rd was fixed at a time for hearing. This is also a non-support case.

The drug stores seem unfair—charging 85 cents for a bottle of mouth-wash and only 5 cents for a glass of tummy-wash.

You're the JUDGE

Snicklethwaite, the grocer, was in the habit of tending to business strictly in person. But one day he found he had to be away for a while and so asked his two daughters to look after the store.

While Snicklethwaite was thus away, two men came in, one of them a constable, and attached certain property of Snicklethwaite's and then deputized the other man as keeper of the attachment. Then he departed. Soon thereafter Snicklethwaite returned. Immediately one of his daughters reported to him that the man there who had been deputized as keeper had acted in an offensive manner and had ordered them about. Snicklethwaite quickly understood the presence of the man, but nevertheless he grasped the deputy by his coat lapels, pushed him against the wall, and held him there until his other daughter got a policeman to arrest him.

In due time the deputy sued Snicklethwaite for false arrest.

UNVEIL SAFETY TROPHY AT PLANT

county and state officials were genuinely pleased to be present and the business and civic life of New Castle was well represented.

The exercises opened at two o'clock with W. L. White, Jr., Assistant General Manager of the Medusa Company in charge. A divine invocation was offered by Rev. J. Green, pastor of the Wampum Presbyterian church, following which A. J. R. Curtis, assistant general manager of the Portland Cement Association made the formal presentation of the trophy to the men and management of the Crescent plant.

He said: "Success nearly always comes to those who persist in their efforts in the right direction. When Theodore Roosevelt was a youngster he was beaten in a fight by a boy his own age. Discouraged, he went to his father. 'You have a weak body' said his father, 'but you can overcome that. All you need is the will to do what you must do, and perseverance.' So strong did he finally become that when shot at Milwaukee he made a speech before thousands of people, with a bullet in his body.

Intelligent Effort Wins. "You have shown that you know the value of perseverance. Intelligent effort wins. That but another way of expressing the meaning of the motto 'Safety Follows Wisdom' which appears on your trophy.

"I must bring you a word of gratitude from our industry as a whole, for the splendid example you have set and the help you have given in again putting cement at the head of all American industries so far as the prevention of accidents is concerned. That is a noble record and one of which we are all proud. According to the National Safety Council 40,000 men at work for ten hours in the cement mills and quarries suffer an average of 2.52 accidents; the same number in the home for the same period, 4.8 accidents; engaged as automobile drivers or passengers, 5.13 accidents; as pedestrians, 6.94 accidents from automobiles alone; as workers in industry in general, 7.39 accidents. So the chances for accidental injury in the cement plant are little more than half as great as in the home and less than 37 per cent as great as the hazards to pedestrians from automobile accidents alone. And the worker in a cement mill has little more than one third the possibility for accident that confronts the average American industrial worker.

"It isn't so long since the record of this plant or of our industry in general, was not so good. In 1924, a cement mill in Indiana made the first record of a year's operation without lost time accident. There were 46 such records in 1930, made by almost one third of the mills within the membership of the Portland Cement Association.

"There has been marvelous improvement since your president, Mr. J. B. John, became chairman of our committee on accident prevention, four and a half years ago and it is appropriate that we acknowledge his enthusiastic interest and his excellent leadership. Five years ago 40 of the mills which are receiving awards this year suffered 406 lost time and 14 fatal accidents. Hundreds of days were lost and thousands of dollars missing from pay envelopes; there was disappointment, pain, sorrow and destitution in greater measure than perhaps any of us have known them. Today it is different and the change is due entirely to the manner in which you have pulled together under your very able leadership.

"We have just come from New York where your delegates received the formal award of the Portland Cement Association trophy for 1930. It remains only for me, acting on behalf of the members of the Association and by authority of the board of directors, to now formally present it to you and to wish you freedom from accident for many years to come.

Trophy Unveiled. As he concluded, little Miss Clara Campbell, daughter of Lloyd Campbell of the electrical department, pulled the cord and the trophy was revealed. As she did so, the crowd, a throng or more broke into applause and cheers.

W. P. Rice, superintendent of the plant, accepted the trophy in a few words. He bespoke his appreciation for the co-operation of the men in the plant in the building of such a splendid safety record and promised that with a continuation of such co-operation the plant would go forward to an even better record.

J. B. John, president of the Medusa Portland Cement Company was introduced and congratulated the plant upon its efforts. Mr. John has been one of the leaders for safety in the cement industry for many years and has served as chairman of the Safety Council of the Portland Cement Association. Of the eight plants in the Medusa company, seven of them have won the Portland Cement Association's safety trophy for a year's record without a lost time accident. In addition, the company was recently presented at York, Pa., the Joseph A. Holmes certificate of award for work in welfare and safety. This came from the Bureau of Mines of the Federal government and is a coveted award.

Two other addresses followed, one by Rev. F. R. Maloney, pastor of St. Monica's Catholic church, and Senator George T. Weingartner of New Castle. Senator Weingartner compared the present day of safety to the days of a quarter of a century ago when accidents were considered a part of the day's work. The General Assembly has passed laws regulating safety in industry," said Senator Weingartner. "But it has lagged far behind industry itself, which has forged ahead on its own initiative, increasing the safety factor in industry until today when accidents are the exception rather than the rule.

E. J. McGuire, vice president and treasurer of the Medusa Company followed with a few brief remarks.

During the exercises, Mr. Rice, superintendent of the plant was presented with a bouquet, the gift of the New Castle Better Business Bureau and the New Castle Chamber of Commerce. In addition, many New Castle business men were present for the presentation. Among them were Judge James A. Chambers, Fred L. Rentz, publisher of The New Castle News, Senator George T. Weingartner, County Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough, President of the Better Business Bureau, E. Shenken, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce Alfred W. Chilton, President of the Rotary Club L. B. Round, H. B. Richards, Attorney James W. Rhodes, Representative Bart Richards, Council L. G. Genkiner, Edward Beadel, W. Duff, M. A. McLeure, and a number of others.

Among the officials of the Medusa Portland Cement Company present were: J. B. John, president; E. J. McGuire, vice president and treasurer; W. L. White, Jr., assistant general manager; W. E. Worth, superintendent of the Dixon, Ill. plant; Phillip Mooney, assistant superintendent of the Dixon plant; and A. J. R. Curtis, assistant general manager of the Portland Cement Association.

For the exercises, the workmen of the plant, some 250 in number, the school children, and the citizens of Wampum gathered in front of the grandstand. The trophy is erected in a small park which has been laid out for that purpose. It adds much to the beauty of the grounds but its beauty is far outstripped by the humanitarian reasons for its presence on the grounds of the Crescent Portland Cement Company.

STAR LORE

HOW WE SEE EXTRA AREAS OF MOON'S POLAR REGIONS

By Arthur De V. Carpenter.
The moon in its journey around the earth, is tilted over 6½ degrees to the plane of its orbit around the earth. In consequence of this tilting of the moon's axis to its orbital plane, a part of the lunar month, we on the earth are enabled to look over the top of the north pole of the moon and make observations along its surface 6½ degrees beyond it. At another part of the lunar month the moon's south pole is inclined toward the earth, and we are permitted to gaze 6½ degrees under it. Because of this tilting 13 degrees of the far side of the moon becomes visible.

of the Army. Foulis interrupted an early shower bath to tell International News Service he believed the American Army Air Corps was superior to any in the world.

Mitchell On Hand. His observations came within several hours of the arrival of William E. ("Billy") Mitchell, former Brigadier General and Assistant Chief of the Air Corps. Mitchell was an interested unofficial observer, and remarked that the formation was a great undertaking but that, "they haven't but 100 combat planes out there."

"There may be faster planes abroad than we have," Foulis said, "but as a fighting army I believe we have the best in the world. We didn't even know we could handle so big a force."

Four planes were reported down enroute to the formation point here, but no fatalities resulted. One nosed over near Cleveland, smashing a propeller; a broken oil line near Waco Field, Texas, accounted for a transport plane; another went down with a broken connecting rod at Argyle, Texas, and a fourth was down at Scott Field, Ill.

SEVEN RESCUED IN MINE SHAFT

bored their way into the mine from a shaft through which the mine shaft penetrated.

Two of the lads, George Duckett, 17, and Jesse Duckett, 26, sons of the mine operator, were at work in the shaft late yesterday. Five other youths, John Duckett, 26; Ed Barry, Dale Andersons, 14; Orville O'Donnell, 20, went into the mine to ask Duckett brothers to join them in a baseball game.

All seven then started for the surface in a mine car. Nearing the mine entrance, the car suddenly jumped the track, crashed into a prop supporting the shaft roof and caused the roof of slate to collapse, trapping all the boys.

Their plight was not discovered until a miner passing the entrance noticed it was blocked by a slate fall. Investigation disclosed that seven boys were missing and rescue crews were rushed here from DuBois.

The crews worked throughout the night cutting a hole into the shaft where the boys were trapped. All were taken safely from the mine this morning, somewhat scared but a little proud over their adventure.

"White Line" Gang May Be Broken Up

Councilman Reeves today rapped the "White Liners" and in a conversation with colleagues expressed the belief that the "White Line" gang should be scattered. He stated that every day there are several dozen members to be seen in downtown streets.

FUTURE GENERATIONS PAY

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S recent summary of the high cost of warfare and preparedness draws a final and apt chapter from General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' relief.

This chapter opens with a recital of the fact that the government has distributed $1,000,000,000 under the new bonus bill and that by 1953 veterans' relief will have cost the federal government $21,000,000,000.

He anticipates a pension for all World War veterans such as are paid to Civil War veterans, although the wartime risk insurance and the more recent adjusted compensation policies were given the veterans with the understanding that they would be in lieu of a pension.

When the United States entered the war it remembered how former wars had burdened the country under the pension system and sought to ease the burden of future generations through war risk insurance and a scientific system of deferred compensation. Now it appears that these well-laid plans have served only to saddle the taxpayers with an added burden, for it is quite generally taken for granted that pensions for all World War veterans are not far off. General Hines is among those in high places who believe the nation will have to face the problem of pensions for the veterans of 1917 and 1918.

This future would not be so dark if the pension dollars were to come from those who made millions from the war, instead of from generations that may have only a vague idea as to wherein they benefited from the war.

POSTAL DEFICIT GROWS

Back of the post office department's concern over postal rates and subsidies is a probable deficit of $140,000,000 at the end of the current fiscal year. The deficit last year was a little less than $100,000,000, so a condition the department termed "bad" a year ago has gone from bad to worse.

Fifty millions of the deficit are due to loss of business through the depression. Postal revenues fell off that much without any reduction as long as millions of other workers were idle. It is unlikely that this particular item will be subject to public protest.

It is well for the department to be concerned over the large and growing deficits of the postal service, but let it not concern itself with what the taxpayers think of these deficits.

All that the public asks of this government agency is an efficient mail service at the lowest possible cost. It is more interested in low postal rates than in balanced books. If the department can convince the taxpayers that it is giving them a hundred cents worth of service for every dollar of revenue, deficits will not be counted against it.

Would it not be better for the postmaster general and his assistants to stress the importance of low postal rates than the size of postal deficits, since the real purpose of government operation of the mails is to make possible continuous and cheap communication between the American people?

FIRE ON THE FARM

During 1930 farmers suffered one of the greatest fire losses in agricultural history—a total of about $125,000,000, according to the National Fire Waste Council, as compared with an average of $100,000,000 in "normal" years.

This unusually heavy fire loss was attributed largely to the drought, which increased the common farm hazards such as highly combustible buildings, isolation from the protection of adequately equipped fire companies, and general lack of fire-quenching facilities.

Even so, the annual farm fire loss cannot be justified. Numerous studies have been completed and others are being made on how to reduce the waste. Many authoritative booklets, dealing with every phase of the agricultural fire problem, are available. The barrier in the way of prevention, of course, is the same on farms as in cities—the refusal of the individual to learn the fundamentals of fire prevention, and his carelessness in permitting unnecessary hazards to go uncorrected.

It cannot be questioned that the annual fire waste has done much to prevent farm prosperity. Even if all property were covered by insurance—which it is not—no policy can compensate for destroyed buildings and crops, wasted time, devastated land. Every farmer should take steps to make his property as "fire-proof" as is humanly possible.

FROM BAD TO WORSE

The mob spirit in Spain is still stronger than the new Republican government, which seems to be doing its best to preserve order, though with little success. Prudence alone would forbid it to instigate the destruction of churches and the attacks upon religious orders. The animosity to these can not be shared by the great majority of Spaniards. Revolutions are usually the work of a comparatively few men. In 1789 the Paris crowds did not represent the spirit of France as a whole; and the Communist terror which followed the Franco-Prussian War was quickly suppressed. There is, however, one element of danger in Spain which must not be minimized. That is the Bolshevik propaganda which has been let loose with the departure of the king and the general disorganization of law and order.

But the government is not free from all complicity. It's charges of monarchist plots, its seizure of Alfonso's private property, its threats of trying to extradite him and put him on his trial—all these things have added fuel to the flames. What Zamora and the rest wish to do is to justify themselves by blackening the old regime. That is all the more reason why they should seek to come into court with clean hands. But so far they are governing with a greater display of force than the hated Primo de Rivera ever thought of using. It is difficult to resist the suspicion that they would have the new Cortes elected under duress, as if they were reluctant to permit an honest expression of Spanish public opinion.

"Knowing thyself" isn't much use unless you can convince others. An Oklahoma man has started to walk around the world backwards. A lot of people go through life that way.

The Child Is Your Teacher
Greatest of All
Your Reproach and Your Guide

By MARSHALL MASLIN

We do not teach. We are taught. You do not teach a child. A child teaches you.

You cannot teach a flower to burst through the dark earth and grow toward the light and bloom. It gives you even though faintly, a lesson in the mystery of life.

You may teach a friendly puppy to do tricks. He teaches you more. He teaches something about love and kindness and loyal, unselfish affection.

Very often, when we think we are teaching, we are not teaching at all but studying out lessons.

So it is with a child, the greatest of all Teachers among men and women.

You say to a child, "Learn!" The child whispers, "Learn from me!" You say to a child, "Study your history lesson!" The child replies, "All history is in me. Study me!"

You say to a child, "Do what is right!" The child responds, "Set me a proper example. If I must not lie, then do not lie to me. If I must stand straight, you stand straight, too. If I should be happy, let you be happier still. Watch your tongue, watch your temper, watch your thoughts, watch your wishes, your hopes, your ambitions, your emotions. And thus, if you would teach me, you must first learn from me that deeper wisdom I must accept and use and make a part of my own self. I am your teacher, though you may not know it."

So a child, or even the thought of a child, of a young thing coming into this earth and growing here, is the greatest of all Teachers in this world.

He is your reproach, he is your example, he is your guide. Fearing he will follow the lesser part of you, he educates you. In the older sense of that word, he leads out from you the better part of your being. He is your loving friend, but he is also your stern attendant, and he will not let you falter. All pedagogy is in him—let him teach you!

You want to receive credit for the worthwhile things that you have done.

Because you have failed of recognition you wonder whether it is worth the effort you put into your work. If the good you do is suggested and carried out with an idea of praise for it you have the wrong spirit in your undertakings.

You are working along personal lines, not that others may benefit from your kindness or generosity. What prompts you to most of the fine things that you do?

To what extent is self-satisfaction removed from the incentive? Unless your thoughts are wholly without idea of recompense you certainly have the wrong idea of worthy acts.

Too many folk want the world to know of their charity.

Fearing that the fact may be hidden they refer to it.

To hear a person allude to his benefactions sounds suspicious. The real pleasure should be the heartwarming resulting from a good act.

If you frequently allude to the amount you give to support the church or the sum total of your contributions to the community chest and to other charitable organizations you have a selfish interest in making contributions.

THE SEED OF GREATNESS

This lovely seed: "I'll never see The lovely flower that is to be. I am the life, and yet I die A bit of beauty to supply. From me a lovely thing shall grow Which I shall never live to know."

This said his friend: "It is too bad; He never knew the wealth he had. He toiled for years. Now to his name A noble son brings lustrous fame. But he has gone and cannot know The joy which would have cheered him so."

What small philosophy is this Which holds in self lies every bliss? Shall seeds inert and lifeless be Because the blooms they'll never see? And man not wish his son to grow To heights which he may never know?

I think 'twere better far indeed Of manliness to be the seed Than be the bloom itself and fade A victim of the cutter's blade. Come death or not, I hope I can Be father of a greater man! (Copyright, 1931, Edgar A. Guest.)

Changes In Judicial System Believed To Be National Need

Wickersham Report, Followed By Statements Of Chairman, Leads To Discussion Of Greater Coordination Throughout The Country

While the country has been impressed by the charge of the Wickersham commission that data concerning crime in this country are inaccurate and incomplete, further statements by the chairman of the law investigating body give rise to study of even wider defects in the judicial system. General uniformity in laws dealing with crime as well as improvement in statistics is generally recognized as a necessity for the future.

Quoting the statement by Mr. Wickersham that "the administration of criminal justice throughout the United States very largely is still carried on with judicial machinery similar to that employed in the 18th century," the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION declares: "Mr. Wickersham says that such improvements as have been effected in the United States still leave the old methods brought here two centuries ago substantially in force, especially in the field of criminal justice. That is a serious indictment. If there is one thing Americans pride themselves upon, it is keeping up with the times. Yet if Mr. Wickersham is right, we have woefully failed to do this in a field where we are experiencing more trouble than any other civilized nation."

"There are in continental United States," according to the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, "forty-nine independent jurisdictions with their different laws and practices, hundreds of independent municipal police departments, thousands of counties with their independent law enforcement agencies, two or three thousand judicial districts, and there is little coordination of their efforts against crime. No uniformity of data on which even to exchange experiences and so arrive at an agreed understanding of their common problem. This is the reason why criminal jurisprudence in the United States is not as methodically successful as it is in centralized governments. If health and agricultural authorities operated no more closely than law enforcement agencies do, this country would be devastated by diseases of animals and plants."

An address before the American Law Institute by Chairman Wickersham is mentioned by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL, "especially by his statement that 'widespread disrespect for law' is the greatest menace to civilization. The Journal agrees that 'nobody questions that it is a very great menace,' and adds as to the general situation: 'Supplementing Mr. Wickersham's statement comes an interesting remark by Chief Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court, who addressed the same audience of the same day. Mr. Hughes says: 'Even legislative inefficiency may receive attention, not simply in the reexamination of political campaigns, or in future legislative multiplicity of law, but in the intelligent devising of improved methods.' This brings us again to the important truth that there are many laws that ought never to have been enacted—laws that do not act with any substantial majority sentiment, and are correspondingly difficult to enforce."

The address before the law institute is a subject for comment by the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, which notes the appeal by Mr. Wickersham for that body "to enlist its scholarship and research in the fight on crime and undertake the follow-up work necessary, if the labors of the national commission are to be fruitful into the most useful results." The Evening Post criticizes the position of the head of the commission with the statement: "The commission's vague, inconclusive pronouncement on the liquor laws and the situation arising under which the public knows its hardy and that being the case it is hardly to be expected that the lawyers of the institute or anybody else will become emotional over the appeal of Chairman Wickersham to carry on so that the work of the commission may 'fructify.' There are numerous important problems of law enforcement that could probably be considered with advantage by intelligent groups of lawyers and laymen and that could have been so considered by the Wickersham commission, but the complete failure made by that body has for the time being taken the heart out of any movement of the sort. As he has done in not a few other cases, President Hoover effectively buried the whole subject of law enforcement by the appointment of a commission."

The demand of the commission for more accurate crime statistics is generally indorsed. The PORT WATNEY NEWS-SENTINEL offers the suggestion in harmony with that demand: "The commission is in unanimous agreement that nationally we have no dependable system of gathering information on the criminal and his acts. Present records are 'unsatisfactory, often inaccurate and more often incomplete.' There is excellent opportunity for playing favorites and general political maneuvering in the Department of Justice set-up. There is no central agency at Washington to collect, interpret and disseminate crime statistics. A man who could do for the Department of Justice what Herbert Hoover did for the department of commerce would be nothing less than an immortal hero. Uniformity and completeness of crime statistics are vital if we are to learn the causes and the probable cures of an appalling crime situation. The recommendations of the commission for assembling of nationwide crime statistics by the census bureau should be followed in the near future."

It is believed by the SAN BERNARDINO SUN that "some of the public inability to cope with this problem through officials and courts arises from the very lack of understanding and authoritative information." The MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL feels that "accurate and complete information about any problem sought to be solved must be the first step in proposing any solution." The NEW YORK SUN, considering the recommendation for the census bureau to prepare needed information, holds that "it should at least be able to supply statistical information of value in respect of a few things in place of undependable tabulations that clutter up so many books and essays discussing crime and criminals."

"The commission hopes," as observed by the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, "to see bureaus of criminal statistics created in each state for the collection of state-wide data, which can be used by the states in meeting their own problems of law enforcement and, at the same time, transmitted to Washington for inclusion in an annual report which will give complete and accurate information on crime, criminals, police, prosecutions, courts and prisons. Such a report would afford the country full and continuous knowledge concerning the enforcement of the criminal law. Fortunately, the adoption of this policy is not dependent upon congressional action. Under the authority of legislation passed at the last session, the bureau of census can gradually extend the scope of its statistical work until it comes to cover the entire field. A complete national system of criminal statistics, to be sure, is not to be achieved in a day. But at least, at the policy enunciated by the law enforcement commission and the authority given to the census bureau by congress have now brought us appreciably nearer to the attainment of this objective."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GREAT IS RUBBER

Rubber research has resulted in numerous new uses for the product, although in many instances they are not apparent to the eye.

The average motor car is said to contain more than 400 rubber parts, and new uses include rubber shackles, sponge rubber to displace excelsior, hair and other stuffing, and rubber tubing covered by fabric for bead effects in upholstery. Rubber dough plays an important part in eliminating body squeaks.

The railroads now are investigating rubber to eliminate metallic clash and shock, and have under consideration rubber pads over bearings and springs. A new railroad car wheel has been announced recently in which rubber forms a continuous integral part.

A thin film of rubber is applied to the bottom of rugs so they will firmly grip the floor. As a road surface, rubber threatens to change from an experimental to an industrial basis.

Pinchot Scores Senator Fay In Talk At Sharon

Governor Resumes Tour Today With Speeches At DuBois And Bellefonte

PITTSBURGH MAN VOICES PROTEST

(International News Service)
DUBOIS, Pa., May 16.—Extending his state stumping tour on behalf of his fair rate board legislation into Clearfield county, Governor Pinchot today was scheduled for a speech here at noon and another address tonight at Bellefonte.

In rallies at Butler, Meadville and Sharon yesterday, the governor continued his attack on the utilities climaxing a day of traveling and speechmaking with an address in Senator Frank Fay's home county of Mercer during which he characterized Fay as "just one more example of men who betray their constituents."

During his Sharon address Pinchot said:
"I'm sorry for his (Fay's) district, because you made that mistake. It's a little too much for the people of this district to have the public utilities on their backs and have Frank Fay as senator at the same time."
At Meadville, Pinchot again excoriated Fay for what he termed the senator's "sell out at Harrisburg" and pledged himself to "steam-roller" his utilities regulating program through the legislature "and let the public utilities make what they can of it."

Opposition Voiced.
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 16.—Voicing vigorous opposition to Governor Pinchot's proposed fair rate board, Thomas A. Dunn, vice president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, today was on record with the assertion that the governor's current stumping tour of the state is nothing more than "an effort to ridicule before their constituents, the senators who did not agree with him on his public utility legislation."
Dunn added:
"I have never heard of anyone standing on the street corners of the cities and towns of this state, demanding his fair rate bills. These bills seem to be entirely of the governor's making to take over control of the public utility companies of Pennsylvania."

Wage Reductions.
Rate reductions by the utilities, Dunn said, would mean a coincident reduction of the wages of more than 300,000 employees of public utilities companies in Pennsylvania.
The fair rate board legislation was condemned by Dunn as simply "an effort of the governor to get back at the large interests of this commonwealth who thought that the other equipped and more likely to understand business and act for the betterment of all large and small interests in this state."

Dog Mascot Joins State Police Here And Gets Initiated

The state police stable force in New Castle, consisting, as the local troopers like to tell, of two horses, three chickens and a dilapidated Ford, has been augmented by the addition of a true mascot, a handsome black Belgian shepherd dog.

The dog, although yet unnamed, but showing enthusiasm for her new masters, received an initiation into the fraternity of law and order this morning when she appeared chained to the arm of State Patrolman Richards in the office of Alderman Marshall, to be introduced to several local constables, District Attorney Powers, County Detective Lee and a half dozen attorneys present for a hearing.

Harper, Local Boy Who Builds Planes, Flies Over Section

Lived In South Side Years Ago; To Furnish Government With Stress Data

Jack Harper, owner of the Harper Aircraft Company of Cleveland, builder of the new low-winged open cockpit four-passenger monoplane that has been declared something new and unique in the aeronautical world by pilots and experts, today flew over New Castle—high above the streets on which he once played as a boy.

Harper, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Harper of Knox, near Ellwood City, arrived here from Cleveland Thursday in one of his new planes and landed at Bradford field. Enroute to Cleveland on the afternoon after their arrival Thursday Harper and his pilot, Harry Post, were forced to land outside of Ellwood City due to a "frozen" cylinder, but soon continued on their way.

Harper, now married, formerly lived on the South Side and went to the local schools. In 1918 he left this city and later learned aviation on the Pacific coast.

Today, before an enthusiastic group of aviation experts and pilots, Harper demonstrated his plane. His third airplane is now in the process of construction at Cleveland, and if the word of Earle Meuser, Bradford airport pilot is to be taken seriously, the former New Castleite has brought something new into the aviation world.

The plane is reported to have a landing speed of 25 miles and can average about 65 miles in flight.

During the morning the plane, which had been left overnight at Bradford field, could be seen hovering over New Castle's downtown district. In the Seventh Ward, too, the low-winged plane could be seen.

Pilot Meuser took the ship aloft in the morning, accompanied by David Pitzer of the Seventh Ward, local produce dealer, who is also an amateur pilot and aviation enthusiast. Later in the day Harper went up with Meuser.

It is reported from Bradford field that within a short time Harper will deliver to the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., the stress specifications and other data about the new plane.

Harper and his pilot had flown the plane from Warren, O., to New Castle Thursday afternoon in order to demonstrate the new low-winged principle to experts, at several airports. They then took off for Ellwood City enroute to Cleveland and landed near Ellwood City, where Harper went to call on his father, who lives in Knox.

Dr. C. E. MacCartney At Westfield Church

Pittsburgh Divine Speaks To Large Audience On Friday Evening

Dr. Clarence E. MacCartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, and former moderator of the Presbyterian church, spoke in the Westfield Presbyterian church of which Rev. Ross M. Haverfield is pastor, Friday evening to a crowd that overflowed the church auditorium.

Dr. MacCartney chose as his subject "A Witnessing Church" and his sermon was clear and forceful; paying tribute to those of the past who have witnessed for Christ and he recognized the need for courageous witnessing today and a challenge for the future.

In spite of present heresies and discouragements, Dr. MacCartney firmly expressed the belief that our Lord's cause would ultimately triumph and that Jesus would indeed become "King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

Rev. Harrison Davidson of Evon Valley offered the prayer and Rev. D. C. Schnebly of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church pronounced the benediction.

Closing the service Rev. and Mrs. Haverfield and the choir of the church held a reception at the manse for Dr. MacCartney and a group of friends who accompanied him from Pittsburgh. A delicious lunch was served.

Dr. MacCartney has many friends in this community and it was with great joy they greeted this opportunity of hearing him.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Period of below normal temperatures, expected to center on 15, will be brought to a close as center of warm storm wave, expected to cross continent during week centering on seventeen, reaches your vicinity; this storm wave is expected to cause rising average temperatures during balance of month in all areas east of Rockies and best growing weather of month; west of Rockies, a rather sharp drop in average temperatures is expected to follow this storm center and probably cause some damage to tender plants in section seven and northern part of eight, north Pacific slope. As storm wave of moderate force, expected to cross continent during week centering on twenty-six, reaches your vicinity, a moderate cold wave north and cool wave south will be expected; temperatures of this period will not be expected to cause damage in any area. Storm wave of mild force, expected to cross continent during week centering on thirty-one, will be a warm storm center that will cause above normal temperatures during entire storm period over entire continent.

Above conditions indicate that, after May six and seventeen, it will be safe to put tender plants in the ground in areas where the average Spring does not bring killing frosts later than those dates. Near May six, killing frosts occur during the average Spring as far south as latitude 43 on Pacific slope, 35 in Rockies and vicinity and 41 in most areas east of Rockies. Near May seventeen, killing frosts occur during the average Spring as far south as latitude 45 on Pacific slope, 37 in Rockies and vicinity and 44 in most areas east of Rockies. Near May twenty-six, I will expect killing frosts in northern spring wheat belt, probably extending as far south as northern Great Lakes in that vicinity and farther south in mountain country; otherwise will expect little or no damage from low temperatures this Spring after storm wave centering on May seventeen has passed.

From the thousands of maps of weather sections sent from this office, there is occasionally one reflected. While every care is taken that these maps may reach interested readers, some errors will occur. These maps do not give forecasts of future weather, as many expect them to. To secure one of these maps with explanations, enclose return postage to Foster's Weather Bureau, Box 1930, Washington, D. C. If you have sent for one and did not receive it, omit the postage this time.

Brisbane, noted writer for the Hearst papers, sees no difference between the U. S. Farm Board dumping its wheat holdings in Europe and Russia dumping wheat in the U. S. And Brisbane's writings are no doubt highly paid and read by millions. Even at the present low price of wheat in North America, if Russia was allowed to dump wheat here without hindrance for the next twelve months, with the present low import tariff, American farmers (this includes Canadians) would hardly be able to give their wheat away. Whatever wheat is or was held by the U. S. Farm Board would have gone to Europe had there been no Farm Board.

Proposal From Farmers Turned Down By Board

Federal Farm Board Turns Thumbs Down On Nation-Wide Campaign Plans

SEEK CONTROL OF WHEAT SURPLUS

By HARRY WARD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Federal Farm board today turned thumbs down on a proposal that a nation-wide campaign be made by organized farmers, with financial aid and moral support from the board, to obtain control of the surplus wheat crops of 1931 to 1933, inclusive.

The plan also proposed to limit the surplus from the crops of 1932 and 1933 by having at least 75 per cent of the wheat growers to join a national surplus control association with a three-year membership contract binding each signatory to a definite program.

The board's views on the proposal were published in a letter from Chairman James C. Stone to F. J. Wilmer, of the North Pacific Grain Growers Cooperative Association, Rosalia, Wash.

Percentage Basis
The proposal, in effect, was that each farmer hold or deliver to the association without advance payment such proportion of his wheat crop as the board of directors might determine. On a percentage basis for the crop as a whole; grain so delivered to be sold through the Farmers National Grain Corporation so as not to affect the domestic market for milling wheat; the surplus over cost of hauling and transportation to be returned to the grower.

Each grower was to limit his acreage sown for the crops of 1932 and 1933 in such percentage as the board of directors would designate.

The theory underlying this proposal "evidently is that if such a campaign were successful, wheat growers would obtain better returns for their wheat of the 1931 and subsequent crops."

Is Not Practical
"The board's conclusion is that the plan does not afford a practical way of dealing with our great surplus problem," Stone's letter said.
"We believe it would be impossible even with intensive efforts, to get enough farmers to cooperate under the proposed contract to give the plan a fair chance of success. A uniform nation wide contract for surplus control of acreage reduction would not be appropriate under widely diverse conditions. Whatever benefits the plan might yield would go most heavily to those farmers who did not share in its obligations."

Finish Meal With Cheese For Health

Sound Reason Back Of Habit Says Dr. Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A large number of recent observations on the physiology of the gall bladder have passed into practical medicine. With the development of the dye method of gall bladder diagnosis, it has become necessary to make the gall bladder empty itself in order to test its powers of contraction. To do this the patient is given some fat to eat—a glass of cream or a hard boiled egg and the full gall bladder is immediately seen under the X-ray to empty.

For no good reason except experience, people of middle age have instinctively taken some cheese at the end of a meal. Especially at the end of the heaviest meal of the day. This, so far as I know, was not done out of any profound knowledge of physiology, but simply because they knew that they felt that way.

Deeply instinctive habits are usually found sooner or later to have some reason in fact. And the newer knowledge of the gall bladder seems to furnish the explanation of the eating of cheese by middle-aged people at the end of a heavy meal.

Children, incidentally, do not readily acquire such a habit. They like desserts at the end of a meal. This taste lasts up to about the age of 30, and then eating gradually drops until it finally disappears. Cheese as the last course, or salad with a cheese dressing or an olive oil (fat) dressing, means the same thing.

The explanation is that gall bladder disease is a very common disease of middle age. It is very uncommon in young people and begins to be observed at about the age of 35. Statistics show that about 40 per cent of people over this age have either gall stones or infected or sluggish gall bladders. Of course, a gall bladder, when distended and when somewhat inflamed, gives a certain amount of discomfort. This may not be very acute, but may amount to a feeling of heaviness or fullness in the region of the stomach. Cheese is the same in action as the cream or hard-boiled egg the X-ray man gives his patient to empty the gall bladder. It drains the gorged gall bladder of these middle-aged folk and makes their meals "set" well. A sweet dessert will not do the same thing. So when you choose cheese as the finale to your meal you are using the very latest principles of modern medical practice.

Pennington Scans Musty Old Papers

Prohibition Administrator Finds That "Good Old Days" Had Lot
Of Vice

Papers Dating Back To 1890
And Prior To That Time
Reveal Bootleggers

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—John D. Pennington, federal dry administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, thumbed musty old newspaper files today and found, he said, that the "Good old days" before prohibition were "not so good after all."

Just why they were not so good Pennington explains in a 24-page booklet, quoting freely from newspaper excerpts of yesteryear. These excerpts reveal, he said, that the following conditions, common to 1931, existed prior to the passage of the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act:

College gin drinking.
Police and political graft in connection with the illegal operation of speakeasies.
Muscling in tactics of gangsters
eager for their share of the bootleg liquor traffic.
Every page of the pamphlet bears the anti-saloon league slogan
"Full Speed Ahead" and is entitled
"They Almost Had Me Fooled."

A quotation from the Pittsburgh Times of March 4, 1890, decries the operation of more than 1,000 speakeries in Philadelphia with conditions but little better in Allegheny county (Pittsburgh).

Corruption Existed
The Philadelphia Times of later date prior to prohibition is quoted to prove that corruption in police and political circles existed. This article asserts that all but a few score of the illegal speakeasies in Philadelphia were known to police and city administrators but all were allowed to continue on "their merry illegal dispensation unmolested" when

"protection money" was paid to officials.
The account of an alleged drunken orgy in New Haven at the Yale-Princeton football game in 1897 is taken from the Chicago Union-Signal. More than 1,000 students visited saloons in New Haven during the week of the game, the article declares, and took command of the city in drunken revelry.
The little booklet is looked upon by anti-prohibition forces as the first attempt of prohibition organizations to launch an attack in this manner on the "wets" reminis-cences of the "Good Old Days."

Dinner Stories

HE GOT THE JOB!

The manager had dismissed the office boy for untidiness and general slackness and was interviewing in turn a waiting line of a dozen applicants for the position. Presently there was ushered in a very diminutive
youth with alert manner.
"Now, my boy," said the manager,
impressively, "I want a boy who is smart and tidy—he must look around the office and note little things that have to be done. I am tired of boys who never see anything that requires doing, and I am determined to have a boy with some idea of keeping things as they should be kept. Do you understand me?"

"Yes, sir, certainly, sir," said the boy. "Shall I begin by putting your tie straight, sir?"

Proposing With Alphabetical Soup

It Has Unfavorable Results If The Lady Love Is Near-Sighted And Goes Home
For Her Lorgnette

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

I am writing this story from my cell in a middle-western penitentiary and in fairness to the state
I want to say that it is as homelike as it is possible for any penal institution to be. The warden's wife is a wonderful little woman and you can see the touch of her hand everywhere in the prison.
She is busy all the time and only yesterday finished a set of slipcovers for the electric chair. The dungeons are flooded with sunlight
and the straightjackets have zippers up the side instead of the old-fashioned laces.

I was sent here ten years ago for murder, but I think that after you've heard my story you'll agree with me that it was justifiable homicide.

I was a waiter in a Cleveland restaurant and was an honest, law-abiding citizen except on my day off. I didn't get a job until I was nearly 30 years old as my mother was a scrub woman in a downtown
office building and I had to drive
her to work every morning.

Wearing Task, We'll Say

I had to get up at 4:30 in order to get her down to the building at five o'clock, and I was so tired after the drive that I had to go back home and get some sleep.

It was only after mother got transferred to the night shift that I was able to take a job myself. It was a pretty classy restaurant that I went to work in, and mother had to sell the Ford in order to buy me a uniform so that I could look as nice as the other waiters.

When the Ford was gone mother was forced to walk to work and I couldn't accompany her, as walking always fatigued me so and besides, the chiropractor told me that if I didn't keep off of sidewalks I would get athletes' foot.

Luckily I had picked out a restaurant with a wooden floor and it was easy on my feet as long as I wore expensive shoes and changed
my socks regularly.

Romance Enters

While working in this cafe I became infatuated with a rich society woman who used to stop in on her way to the opera for ham hocks and cabbage.
She always asked the captain to let me wait on her as I generally gave her a little extra service such as blowing her coffee for her.

I don't remember, exactly, but I think it was during her third ham
hock that I discovered I loved her.
It wasn't long, however, until ham hocks became distasteful to her and she began ordering alphabetical soup.

I used to bring her the alphabetical soup and one word led to another. I soon learned that she was a sad widow, but wasn't letting any grass grow under her feet.

As time went on I was more and more determined to have her for my wife, but I didn't dare propose to her as the head waiter understood English and wouldn't permit us to be familiar with anybody in the restaurant except the cashier,
who was his second cousin by a bad marriage.

An Idea!

I knew, however, that love would find a way, and it wasn't long until

I Picked Up a Loaded Water Pitcher And—

til a bright idea struck me. That night when my widow lady came in to the restaurant she ordered alphabetical soup as usual, but before I brought it to her I set the bowl on the serving table and arranged the little macaroni letters
so that they spelled "I Love You"
in the bottom of the dish.

I then took the bowl over to her table and put it down in front of her and purposely neglected giving her a spoon so that she couldn't help looking for a while into the soup and see what I had written there.

But fate was against me. She was nearsighted. Still, in spite of her faulty vision, she seemed to sense that something was written in the bottom of the bowl, and immediately got up and went home
for her lorgnette so that she could make out the writing.

It seemed she was gone for hours and my heart was beating with such a blazing passion that I thought it would burn a hole in my new silk underwear.

Ah, Me! Ah, Me!
I went out to the kitchen to bring a man customer an order of ham and eggs, and when I came back to the dining room I discovered the bus boy had taken my sweetheart's bowl of alphabetical soup and dumped it in with a lot of dirty dishes from the other tables.

I realized then that my romance was wrecked, as it was the last bowl of alphabetical soup in the restaurant. So consumed was I with anger that I picked up a loaded water pitcher, brought it down on the bus boy's head and he never regained consciousness.

I was tried and convicted and am here now for the rest of my life. In closing, let me say, never propose to a girl with a bowl of alphabetical soup unless you take the bus boy
into your confidence.

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record
of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so,
when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety,

Announcement was made at the George Washington Junior high school today that beginning with the next term of school in September a beginners' band that will study band music for players having their first experience with instruments,
will be organized.

Director John E. Paton, supervisor of instrumental music at the school,
pointed out the advantages of such a policy.

The clarinets, cornets, alto horns,
baritone, trombones, and bass horns
that are owned by the school district and are now in use in the first band will become available for the use of the new players in the second band.

a more efficient player when he is ready to enter the first band.

He will more quickly be prepared to enter the first band and will be-

two years, entire sections of new players have had to be put into first

It saves the city from paying out cash for labor and helps the taxpayer. The plan was proposed by the city treasurer in an attempt to assist delinquents who plead they are without funds.

A repeat performance of the model "League of Nations" assembly given by a group of 80 senior high school students, members of Miss Elsie Calvin's Problems of Democracy classes, during a recent chapel program, will be the highlight event in the International Good Will Day exercises of the Arthur McGill Parent-Teacher association, in the senior high auditorium, Monday, May 18 at 8:30, daylight time.

Nation-wide the special observance will call to mind the opening of the first Hague peace conference in 1899, when the first real effort was made to set up the reign of law instead of force. The Arthur McGill chapter is sponsoring the evening affair.

Citizens To Attend
Citizens of New Castle and the county are urged to attend Monday evening to take part in the community-wide celebration, arrangements having been made to welcome a large crowd.

Eighty students of Miss Calvin's classes, representing delegates from the 54 member nations of the league, will take part. He used a sash weight cord to strangle her to death, and tossed the body into Lake Erie, from which it was not recovered until March 19 last, after the girl had been missing for three months.

THE FLOWER PARADE (This is another article of a series on gardens.)

BULB STORAGE Written for Central Press By DR. KARL F. KELLERMAN Bureau of Plant Industry U. S. Department of Agriculture Storage of bulbs after the flowers are gone is no problem or concern for the gardener who does not become attached to his flowers. He merely roots the old bulbs up and throws them on the trash heap and when the time for setting bulbs comes again he buys a fresh supply. For some gardeners this is the most practical way, because the cost of replacing them is slight, say horticulturists of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

To the gardener though, who loves his own particular plant, the bulbs are like old friends. He gets much pleasure from acquaintance with the plants from bulbs, through the flowering period, and back to bulb again. When the flowering period is over he carefully removes them from the ground and stores them for the next season.

Tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are taken up after they have flowered. The gardener takes care not to injure the tops. They should then be heeled in not less than four inches deep in some out of the way place where they will not be disturbed to finish their growth. When the tops die, which usually means a few weeks, they should be taken up and stored on shelves or in boxes for the summer.

In some favorable situations, the bulbs may be left over summer in the beds and the bedding plants grown over them. If so, the bulbs should be planted deeper than usual and the bedding plants dibbled into the beds between the bulbs about the time the flowers fade. The bulb tops are cut off when yellowed. There is danger, though, that the bulbs may deteriorate because of too much moisture supplied to the other plants during the summer.

After he ate 12 cream pies at one sitting, Mike Carucci, 14, of New York claimed the distinction of being the pie-eating champion of the city.

STROUSS-HIRSHBERG'S

Necklace Valued At $90,000 Lost

Mrs. Convers Strong, California, Loses Valuable Necklace In New York

(International News Service) NEW YORK, May 16.—A wide search was launched in New York today and on the liner Roma for a $90,000 pearl necklace reported to police as having been lost by Mrs. Convers Strong of Santa Barbara, California.

Mrs. Strong, who was Miss Katherine P. Convers of New York, left her hotel last night with her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. C. Convers, to accompany Mrs. Convers to the liner. On her return to the hotel, Mrs. Strong noticed her necklace was gone. Police were called at once and a search made of the automobile. The route traveled by the car to and from the pier was also searched but no trace of the necklace was uncovered.

A wireless message was sent to the captain of the liner to search for the missing pearls.

The necklace, described as made of 93 pearls, set with a diamond clasp, was fully insured. Mrs. Strong said.

Mansfield Steel Strike Is Ended

(International News Service)

MANSFIELD, O., May 16.—Sixteen hundred employees of the Empire Steel corporation, who protested a threatened wage cut by walking out earlier in the week, were back at their posts today, after a favorable settlement of the disagreement.

According to virtually all the terms
laid down by leaders of the strikers,
the company agreed to withdraw
a proposed wage cut of 15 per cent.
The men returned to work today with the scale the same that was in effect before May 1.

A retaliatory blow was believed struck, however, with the ejection of 20 alleged labor organizers who were among those striking. Accompanied by the mayor a delegation of the workers walked the unwanted leaders to the city limits and told them to "keep going".

Chest Drive To Start Monday

Compaigners To Seek To Fill Chest—After $27,000 Fund

CHAIRMAN GIVES OUTLINE OF NEED

ELLWOOD CITY, May 16.—Monday the annual chest drive will be set on its feet for a week's growth and the people of Ellwood are asked to help as they have never helped before. The economic depression has greatly increased the need which the community hopes to aid after the campaign has reached its goal of $27,000. The sum has greatly been decreased from last year and it is expected that the drive will go over the top as it has always done.

Lowell W. Monroe, chairman of the drive and borough manager, states the necessity for success of this campaign in the following:

To the People of Ellwood City:

The annual campaign for Ellwood City's Community Chest needs a minimum of $27,000 to carry on for another year. This amount is $10,000 less than was asked last year, when the goal was set at $37,000. Beginning early last fall the several agencies that depended on the Chest for aid have been more insistent that aid be given than at any time heretofore. With the coming of the Spring and Summer months it was hoped that this demand would be lessened, but it was not.

The continued business depression with its resulting unemployment has contributed its share to these increased demands on the Chest. The Chest has been and is meeting these demands to the best of its ability with last year's pledges. However this fund will barely hold out to the end of the present Chest year, June 1, 1931.

Next winter will undoubtedly mean still greater demands from the Chest agencies. Ellwood City must see to it that money is provided to meet these demands.

The value of the Community Chest idea to any community is no longer disputed. It is the most effective, successful and economical method of supervising these charitable institutions. It not only saves time and effort but it constantly increases the efficiency of the various agencies.

Contributions heretofore have come not only from within the limits of Ellwood City but also from the surrounding territory outside of Ellwood City. The country is interested in the Ellwood City Chest for the various agencies reach out beyond the actual city boundaries in the relief work that is done.

The fact that a very large percentage of the total amount pledged is made up of small pledges demonstrates that the entire community is keenly interested in its own community problems. As he has said before these problems are not decreasing. They are serious and I believe can be handled best only through the medium of the Chest.

Not since the Chest was first organized has the need been greater. This thought should be kept in mind at all times during this campaign in which is about to start.

The necessary relief cannot meet this need unless the more fortunate people of Ellwood City and its Community respond generously to the cry of those less fortunate who are aided by the Chest agencies. The Chest cannot support these agencies without funds.

I assure you that the proposed budgets of the various agencies have been carefully prepared and kept to an absolute minimum as nearly as the future demands can be estimated. The Chest finance committee have insisted that these amounts be kept as low as possible.

With this knowledge you can be assured that every dollar you contribute for this cause will be used to its full value for the purpose to which it is given, the most effective relief.

I earnestly solicit that you give cheerfully and liberally to this year's Community Chest.

Respectfully,
LOWELL MONROE

Ross Fields To Box Carpentero

Bantamweight Sluggers To Fight At Castle Bowl Monday

EXPECT BIG CROWD TO WITNESS MATCH

Everything is in readiness for the punch party Monday night at Castle bowl where five battles will be staged. The main bout will bring together the sensational Ross Fields, Welsh-American of Weirton, W. Va., and Luis Carpentero, the rugged, lunging, leaping Filipino of Toledo.

There isn't a fan in the tri-state district who doesn't believe that Fields will displace Willie Davies in the affection of fandom and his big chance will come Monday night when he fights Carpentero who has a reputation here for staging a good battle every time he enters the ring. Fields has been crawling up the pugilistic ladder by leaps and bounds and throughout West Virginia and Ohio he is regarded as one of the best boys at his weight. He carries a knockout and as Carpentero is also a heavy puncher it appears as though the fans are going to see a thrilling fight.

One of the features of the coming main bout is that both Fields and Carpentero are southpaws. It will be the first time in the chronology of the bowl that two left handers have fought in the main bout. Carpentero has held his own with the best in his class so fans can go there and expect to see a hot fight.

The Fields-Carpentero match was substituted for the Henry Firpo-Sam Bruce encounter as the Massachusetts boxing commission insisted that Bruce fight Johnny Indrisano in Boston before he honored his contract here. Rather than lose the match Bruce has been placed on the suspended list.

Bruce had signed to fight in Boston May 12. It rained and the fight was put back until Monday night which tossed a wrench into the bowl plans and it is no fault locally that he is not here. With Fields opposed to Carpentero, however, few fans will regret the move as it is a "natural."

Howard Webb, Indianapolis, will take on Frankie Frey, of this city. Howard is a newcomer to this section. It will be Frankie's chance to clamber up the ladder. They are scheduled to fight six rounds at 155 pounds.

Marshall Couette, the flashy French-American will meet Buzz Hardy, the hard rock of the Beaver Valley. The terms call for a six round bout at 130 pounds. Beaver Valley fans will follow Hardy and cheer him on in hope of a victory.

As Johnny Young is on the state's suspended list Young DiMuccio or some other good 122 pounder will fight Ray Ritchie in a four rounder. If DiMuccio takes the battle, the issue between these 122 pounders will be settled for all time.

Homer Gray of this city, a Grant street pride will be opposed by Nick Adameo of the Seventh ward and gloves are expected to fly the moment the bell rings. They weight 163 pounds and are listed for four chapters.

The first bout will start promptly at nine o'clock daylight savings time, which is eight p. m. eastern standard time and as fans are aching for a sight of fast boys, they will see them when Carpentero and Fields clash.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

IT APPEARS as though Tommy Loughran has returned to the flistic limelight as the result of his 10-round victory over Victorio Campolo last night in Madison Square Garden, Boston. The Argentinian, 232 1-2, towered above the Philadelphia but his height and bulk did not affect the clever Tommy.

WHEN Ross Fields steps into the ring here Monday night it will be the first time he has fought here. He has been boxing three years and has shown exceptional promise. He is being drilled by Jimmy Dunn and Sir James believes that Fields will get somewhere. Carpentero, his foe, is a veteran campaigner.

PATRONS of horse racing have their eyes turned toward Churchill Downs where the Kentucky Derby is being raced late this afternoon. A throng of 60,000 will see probably 15 horses start. Twenty Grand and Mate are favorites to win the fifty-seventh derby.

Kentucky Derby Draws Throng To Churchill Downs

Fair Weather Prevails For Greatest Race In American Track History

FIFTEEN HORSES STARTERS TODAY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—Between 60,000 and 70,000 persons, a typically picturesque "Derby Day" throng, wended their way toward historic Churchill Downs today to witness America's greatest sporting spectacle, the running of the famous Kentucky Derby.

They had come from all parts of the country to thrill to the pulse-stirring drama that is crowded into the brief space of two minutes this afternoon. About five o'clock, post time, a galaxy of the speediest horses that ever stretched a leg will thunder around the one mile and one-quarter racing strip, a mad whirl of color, out of which will emerge a thoroughbred whose prowess will be sung to the four corners of the earth.

Twenty Grand Is Good
Maybe the winning horse will be Twenty Grand. Maybe he will be Mate, or one of the other thirteen entrants. Everybody was doing their own guessing, although the consensus of the rail birds was that it will be "a two horse race," featuring Twenty Grand and Mate.

The weather, which promised to be superb, was regarded as especially suitable for Twenty Grand, at his best on a fast track. Mate can travel, too, under such conditions, and so can Boys Howdy, equisopie, Pittsburgher. At any rate, it is almost sure to be a great race for the field is one of the classics.

It was a gray, carefree throng that made its way through congested streets to the track. Women in summy raiment, many of them carrying bright-hued parasols. Men with binoculars. All animatedly discussing the one and only topic of the hour.

Nearly all of them will bet on some horse. It was conservatively estimated that between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 will be poured into the mutual machines.

Carefully Groomed
Out at Churchill Downs the horses entered in the Derby were carefully groomed and watched over like babies by their handlers. Fifteen three-year-olds are entered, namely: Mate, Twenty Grand, Surf Board, Anchors Aweigh, Ladder, Equisopie, Sweep All, Pittsburgher, Inco, Spanish Play, Boys Howdy, Don Leon, Up, Prince D'Amour, and the Mongol.

Three of these fifteen, Don Leon, Up and the Mongol, are doubtful starters. All will carry 126 pounds. In the draw for positions, Sweep All has the rail, with Equisopie second, and Anchors Aweigh third. Twenty Grand has position number 8, in almost the center of the field, regarded as a favorable position. Mate is assigned to number thirteen, one of the outside positions, while Prince D'Amour and Inco are the two outside horses.

Boys Howdy Fast
Boys Howdy is conceded a good chance because of his Havana record. The rail birds think Equisopie was raced too hard as a two-year-old and besides he has been sick and has not trained any too well.

Pittsburgher is the hope of the West and has many followers. He has done about everything asked of him and has beaten most of the Western candidates.

Prince D'Amour has a world of speed but may not be able to last the distance, they say. Spanish Play, according to the sharps, was lucky in winning the Louisianas as he and three other horses came home in a blanket finish. Up probably will not start unless it rains. Don Leon is also a doubtful starter, as is the Mongol.

Ladder ran third in the pre-kness at Pimlico and was staggering at the finish at one mile and three sixteenths, which is one-sixteenth of a mile shorter than the derby distance. Board is regarded as merely a pace maker for Twenty Grand and Anchors Aweigh. Inco, a long shot, is a sprinter and shows an inclination to suik.

Ellwood Favored In Track Meet Of W. P. I. A. L. Today

Ellwood City High Favored To Win With Crack Team Entered

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 16.—With a host of high school athletes on hand, the 1931 W. P. I. A. L. track and field championship began here today at the University of Pittsburgh stadium.

Records in some of the events are expected to be shattered despite the fact that only two of last year's winners are entered in the field. Fleming of Westhouse in the 440 and Grimm of New Brighton in the broad jump.

The ruling favorite for the meet as the opening event, scheduled for 10 o'clock (daylight time) approached was Ellwood City, represented by a band of crack point winners.

Three Regattas Scheduled Today

Important Day Dawns For Collegiate Rowing Teams—Three Big Races

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 16.—This is an important day for intercollegiate rowing. Three regattas are scheduled.

One finds Coach Rich Glendon boating his Columbia eight against M. I. T. on the Harlem river course; another the Harvard, Navy and Penn crews race on the Schuylkill.

The third is the Carnegie cup regatta at New Haven, Yale's own Derby Day, in which it plays host to Cornell and Princeton.

The race today is Cornell's first of the year, and there's so much interest in the possibilities of the crew which won last season's Poughkeepsie regatta that a special train is being run from New York to New Haven.

Coach Jim Wray has a veteran boatload of oarsmen in his Cornell crew this year and that alone should make them dangerous. But the Ithacans have been hampered by cold weather and they have been unable to get in as much practice as they had last year at this time.

Wray's task today is all the harder because Cornell enters the important regatta with no preliminary races to put it in shape, and still hopes are high in the big red camp, if not for today, at least for the future. The reason is the manpower which the Cornell coach has at his command. Six of the men who rowed Cornell to its astounding triumph at Poughkeepsie again are at their positions. They are Sam Austin, bow; Garret Parsons, No. 3; Commodore Dick Heidelberg, No. 4; Peter McManus, No. 5; Bruce Clark No. 6 and Bob Wilson, stroke.

High School Teams Meet Here Wednesday

One of the fastest meets held here in some years is expected to be staged at Taggart field on Wednesday afternoon when the annual triangular meet between New Castle-Wilkesburg and Washington is held.

For the past few years a meet of this kind between the three schools mentioned above has been held. Annually the meet proves fast and interesting. Last year New Castle topped first place honors and hopes to duplicate the feat again this year.

Twilight thought: Count that day lost, whose low, descending sun finds us with night to do that should be done.—The Duluth Herald.

Tommy Loughran Beats Campolo

Loughran Spots Big Argentine Battler 48½ Pounds But Wins Easily

LOUGHRAN WINS SIX OF ROUNDS

BY LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 16.—Tommy Loughran, modern Jack-The-Giant-Killer, today had scored another triumph in his campaign for a return bout with Jack Sharkey, the only man who ever "cackled" him out.

Spotting his opponent 48½ pounds the dapper Philadelphia cut down another beanstalk of the heavy-weight crop at Madison Square Garden last night when he won a ten-round decision over Victorio Campolo, hulking Argentinian. The verdict was unanimous.

Loughran won six rounds by a wide margin. Campolo took the first and eighth cantos, and earned an even break in the seventh and ninth.

Campolo, always dangerous, clipped Tom on the chin with a right in the eighth round and Loughran's knees sagged, but he managed to rush Vic into a clinch and the slow-thinking gauchito failed to follow up his chance.

Loughran Bloody
An old cut over Loughran's left eye was opened in this round and the flow of blood bothered him from then on.

Campolo, ring-rusty and not in too good condition, punched himself out in the first round when he belabored Tommy all over the ring with flailing rights. Loughran, pulled himself together in the next round and gave Campolo a t. d. ing lesson until the seventh round, when the South American's tremendous weight advantage began to tell in his favor.

Many inches shorter than his opponent, Tommy reached up and smacked the gauchito on the whiskers with straight lefts and right crosses like a little boy pulling presents off a Christmas tree. "was the terrier nipping the mastiff and then jumping a lay, or litt' Faunteley giving a boxing lesson to the bully of the railroad tracks.

Giants Look Bad Against Pirates

McGraw's Team Looks Anything But Pennant Winners As They Lose Game

ATHLETICS TOP CLEVELAND TEAM

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports

NEW YORK, May 16.—Any ideas entertained about the New York Giants winning the National League pennant rested in mental moth balls today, as least as far as we are concerned.

Of course it took the Pirates ten innings to wreck the McGraw machine yesterday, 3 to 2, and if the Giants decide to make a race of it in August we will be perfectly willing to go to the old cedar chest and string along with them.

But today it seemed the proper slant was that it was not how good were the Pirates, but how wretched the New Yorkers. Even if Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh third baseman, had not poked a single to center in the tenth to give the Giants a lead, the Giants would still have hanging over them a record of some very bad baseball.

Giants Look Bad.
In all they had 13 men left on base. Ten hits, coupled with three walks and some disconnected fielding, netted them two runs. In every inning except one they had funeral services for one base runner and in the ninth they put three runners on the spot. As base runners the Giants looked much like six-day bicycle riders and their spills broke the winning streak of their 40-year-old hurling ace, Charlie Mitchell.

He gave the Bucs 11 blasts, compared to ten the Giants snatched from Larry French.

The Athletics opened their series with Cleveland by handing the Indians their seventh consecutive defeat, 4 to 0. A single by Simmons in the sixth started the downfall of Clint Brown, Cleveland hurler, who up to then had matched pitching with Eddie Rommel.

The Chicago Cubs outbit Brooklyn 10 to 8, but the Robins won, 6 to 4. Bissonette's homer with one on being a factor. "Pea Ridge" day was the winning hurler.

Reds Win Two.
Chuck Klein made two fruitless home runs and Buzz Arlett, up from the coast, hit his sixth circuiter of the season, but the Phillies dropped two games to the lowly Reds, 10 to 5 and 7 to 5. Red Lucas and Kolp were the winning pitchers.

Patriarch George Uhle silenced the New York Yankees for Detroit 2 to 0. He gave the New Yorkers only five hits.

Washington parleyed hits in the eighth inning and won from St. Louis, 8 to 5. Goslin homered for the Browns.

Eight Chicago White Sox errors and 14 hits by the Boston Red Sox won for the Ruddy Hose, 12 to 8. The loss was the seventh in a row for the Alabasters.

West Pittsburgh Trims Pontiacs

Another good contest was played on Friday evening when the West Pittsburgh Cubs defeated the Pontiacs. The score was 6-2.

Chill was on the mound for the Pontiacs and was touched for nine hits while Edmiston allowed but three hits.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

An All-New York world series! That has a familiar sound. Where did we hear that before?

Oh, yeah, back in 1921, 1922 and 1923. Ancient history. But it may not be such ancient history along about September. It may be a right-up-to-the-minute label for the 1931 diamond classic.

A month ago an all-New York world series was but a mirage, a vision doomed to be dispelled by the cannonading bats of the Brooklyn, the Athletics, the Cubs and the Cards.

Now, however, a 100 per cent Gotham fall fracas must be listed at least a possibility. For only three of the seven potential pennant contenders in major league circles have continued to play heads-up baseball since the season began and two of the three are garbed in Gotham's colors.

The Yanks and the Giants have not only survived the eastern warfare in their respective leagues, but tackled their western foes with a good margin to spare in the games won and lost column.

The Giants have been getting some excellent pitching, especially from Mr. Fred Fitzsimmons. The Yanks have been making their hits count.

The Yanks, before the season began, appeared to rate a lower spot than the Athletics and Cleveland. Babe Ruth and Company have more than broken even on the season with the A's. They have yet to come to conclusions with the Clevelanders.

Washington has an edge on the series with the Yankees, but the Sens did far worse against Boston than their metropolitan contemporaries.

The Giants, at this writing, haven't lost a series, gaining a good edge on all three eastern opponents—the Phils, the Braves and Brooklyn—and have battled the Cubs, their first western foe, to a standstill.

Brooklyn continues to be the biggest disappointment to the season. A week ago the Robins appeared to be shaking off the effects of their disastrous start. But it was only a flash. They immediately sank back into their losing ways.

The champion Cardinals, a month after opening day, failed to show slackening of the pace which drove them to the top at the starting gong. The current drive of the Red Birds closely resembles their victory march of last summer. They have been beating any pitcher and any team.

In similar manner the Athletics proved their quality as champions by driving to the top of the American league after a poor start. However, the A's progress upward in the standings might not have been so speedy if slumps had not simultaneously upset Washington and Cleveland.

Rumors of dissension continue to threaten the Chicago Cubs, but the team has been playing good baseball through it all.

Correct this sentence: "He is twenty-two," said the flapper. "And so grown-up that he doesn't act tough or worldly-wise to impress me."

Child Welfare Plan Aided By Sale Of Poppies

National Home Committee
Of V. F. W. Meets
Tomorrow On Expansion Plans

HOPE TO BUILD MORE COTTAGES

Plans for development of the V. F. W. National Home during the coming year will be considered at the semi annual meeting of the board of trustees to be held on May 16th.

According to announcement by Fred Stover of Butler, president of the V. F. W. National Home and a past commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., definite action will be taken by the board toward increasing present housing facilities and the making of other necessary improvements during the coming year.

"With more than one hundred children at the V. F. W. National Home at the present time, and a long waiting list of applicants, this meeting will undoubtedly authorize the construction of additional cottages that will provide homes, with proper living conditions, for those children that are entitled to our care," President Stover has announced.

Many of the things that should be accomplished during the next twelve months are dependent upon the success of our 1931 sale of Buddy Poppies. One cent from every Buddy Poppy sold throughout the country during the week before Memorial Day, will be diverted, as in the past, to the upbuilding of this wonderful project. Therefore, the speed with which we develop this humanitarian undertaking in the manner in which we extend its facilities to those children who need our guardianship, can be measured to a great extent by the distribution of these symbolic flowers.

"In creating the V. F. W. National Home, one principle has been kept foremost in the minds of those who have been giving of their time and their efforts to this movement without remuneration. We hold steadfast to the principle that would bequeath honor and tears for the living—and honor and service for the living."

"Every penny that we put into the V. F. W. National Home is simply another contribution toward the upbuilding of a monument to the memory of America's war dead—not a monument of marble or stone but a memorial that takes definite form in the happiness and contentment of children who would otherwise be deprived of the heritage that is theirs as the sons and daughters of patriotic and loyal American fathers and mothers."

DISAGREED WITH JURY

(International News Service)

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—When a jury under his charge returned an award of $4,000 to the plaintiff in an automobile accident damage case, Judge Ellis asked the plaintiff to remit $1,000 of the amount. Failure to do so, he said, would result in his setting aside the jury verdict.
He thought $1,500 would have been a sufficient award, he said, and he was sure $3,000 was wholly sufficient.

HIS CAST AN ALBUM

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Although Robert Fritch, 12, was faced with the sad prospect of several weeks'
stay in a hospital here with a broken leg encased in a plaster cast, the plucky lad made light of his misfortune by converting the cast into an autograph album. The white plaster formed an excellent background for the signatures of hundreds of the boy's chums.

AGAINST WOMEN JURORS

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn.—Connecticut
does not believe in permitting women to serve on juries. The state legislature has rejected a bill permitting such service, the senate by
a bare three votes and the house
by a sizable majority. Women who sought such a privilege believe they have gained a lot by the increase
in two years of those who favor
women jurors. The agitation is to be continued by the league of women voters.

Colleagues Urge
Ex-Senator Reed
To Be Candidate

Senator Harry B. Hawes, Of Missouri Plans To Retire From Senate

FRIENDS URGING
REED FOR POST

Fiery Missourian Sorely
Missed On Capitol Hill
—Is Eloquent
Speaker

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May, 16.—The
Reed, the white-haired Missouri
Democrat, appeared upon the national political horizon today with
the decision of Senator Harry B.
Hawes to retire from the senate at
the end of his present term.

A host of Jim's friends have
launched a movement to draft him
to run for Hawes' toga in 1932. If this move succeeds, Reed will have
the earnest support of his Democratic colleagues on Capitol Hill,
who have sorely missed his leadership, courage and eloquence since
he went into retirement two years ago.

The attitude of Reed's senatorial
colleagues was revealed by Senator William H. King (D) of Utah,
one of the elder-statesmen of his party.

"One is reluctant to make suggestions as to what should be done in
another state or what our party
should be in that state, but instinctively
when one thinks of Missouri,
you think of Reed," said King. "He
is one of the great men of our nation and one of our greatest Democrats."

The Missouriian's age might make
him reluctant to enter the senatorial
race. He will be seventy-one years old in 1932, but he has borne his
years with as little effort as any other man in public life. On the other hand Francis E. Warren (R)
of Wyoming, was re-elected to the senate when 81 years old, while Lee
S. Overman (D) of North Carolina,
was re-elected at 72 and F. M. Simmons (D) of North Carolina, re-

Colleagues Urge Ex-Senator Reed To Be Candidate

Senator Harry B. Hawes, Of Missouri Plans To Re-
tire From Senate

FRIENDS URGING REED FOR POST

Fiery Missourian Sorely
Missed On Capitol Hill
—Is Eloquent
Speaker

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

Reed, the white-haired Missouri
Democrat, appeared upon the national political horizon today with
the decision of Senator Harry B.
Hawes to retire from the senate at
the end of his present term.

A host of Jim's friends have
launched a movement to draft him
to run for Hawes' toga in 1932. If
this move succeeds, Reed will have
the earnest support of his Democratic colleagues on Capitol Hill,
who have sorely missed his leadership, courage and eloquence since
he went into retirement two years ago.

The attitude of Reed's senatorial
colleagues was revealed by Senator William H. King (D) of Utah,
one of the elder-statesmen of his
party.

"One is reluctant to make suggestions as to what should be done in
another state or what our party
should be in that state, but instinctively
when one thinks of Missouri,
you think of Reed," said King. "He
is one of the great men of our nation and one of our greatest Democrats."

The Missouriian's age might make
him reluctant to enter the senatorial
race. He will be seventy-one years
old in 1932, but he has borne his
years with as little effort as any other man in public life. On the
other hand Francis E. Warren (R)
of Wyoming, was re-elected to the senate when 81 years old, while Lee
S. Overman (D) of North Carolina,
was re-elected at 72 and F. M. Simmons (D) of North Carolina, re-elected at 70.

Barney Nord and Miss Ruth Harmon spent Sunday at Sewickley.

derson spent Thursday at Hillsville.

AGAINST WOMEN JURORS

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn.—Connecticut
does not believe in permitting women to serve on juries. The state legislature has rejected a bill permitting such service, the senate by
a bare three votes and the house
by a sizable majority. Women who sought such a privilege believe they
have gained a lot by the increase
in two years of those who favor
women jurors. The agitation is to be continued by the league of women voters.
